

SUBMITTING QUESTIONS FOR INTERVIEWS AND PODCASTS

Hosts may ask you to give them a few questions as a jumping-off point. OR they may have questions they prefer to ask. Be sure to ask them what they normally do and if possible, get any questions they'll ask you in advance so you can prepare.

Your suggested questions should be simple and asked with an open question so that you can expand and take the conversation in the direction you want it to go. Some samples:

Interviews regarding WPN

You have co-founded a powerful professional community with Women's Prosperity Network. Tell us about Women's Prosperity Network...

(share the mission – the tribe building introduction about the movement and misconceptions about women and women in biz)

How can an affiliation with Women's Prosperity Network help you grow your wealth? (or business or life)?

(discuss importance of mindset and strategies and tactics we teach and learn from each other)

What kinds of education does WPN provide?

(talk about there is no training for running a biz, you may know your skill, but we didn't learn how to run a biz at our jobs or in school)

Building wealth, running a business, having a full-time job, especially those working Full-time and doing a side hustle can be daunting. How does WPN keep its members inspired, up and positive?

(seed the monthly events, the Facebook groups and the coaching programs as appropriate)

Where can we learn more about Women's Prosperity Network?

(direct them to networking opt-in)

Interviews on Speaking for Fun & Profit:

How will public speaking help my business?

(discuss seen as an expert, money you can earn, exposure expansion and celebrity)

What do I talk about?

(what do you do for people? What problems to you solve?)

How do I give a good presentation?

(talk about profitizer formula)

What do I do if I get stage fright?

(share power tips)

What tips can you share with us so that I make a good impression?

(get there early, make it about them, smile!)

How do I actually sell from the stage?

(by showing them the problems they have that you solve and the life possible when their desire is fulfilled)

You have co-founded a powerful professional community with Women's Prosperity Network. Tell us about Women's Prosperity Network...

(share the mission – the tribe building introduction about the movement and misconceptions about women and women in biz)