Here's the Buzz:

This training gives you the formula for speaking live. They actually get you to stand in front of the room and do your presentation. This is what sets this WPN workshop apart from all the rest. I love it!

Linda Allred ~ The Hottest Ticket in Town

"I closed over $1,000 in sales AT the Boot Camp and the following week I was at a conference as an attendee and was able to use what I learned at the training to use in 1 on 1 sales conversations. The result ... I closed $10,000 in sales – as an attendee!. If you want to have more influence and make more money, this training is priceless!" Gladys Diaz ~ Hearts Desire Int'l

I had been giving presentations for years and then hired Nancy as my coach. She not only helped me get my presentation perfect, I ended up with 5 clients that day – that is $2,500! This is phenomenal because there were only 20 people in the group! If you want better results from your presentations, call Nancy as fast as you can, she's fantastic! Jeanne Vandermeer ~ Handwriting Analyst

 - What do they want that I can give them?
 - What questions will they have?
 - Who is in the audience, i.e., am I dealing with a mix of styles, i.e., all engineers or party planners? What do I need to do to speak to everyone?_____

Timing of Your Presentations & Suggested Price Points

Total Speaking Time Allotted	30	45	60	90
Opening Grabber Statement/Question, WIIFM Little bit of your credibility	5	5	5	5
Body / Content (Divide total time between points) Point #1 Point #2 Point #3	18	28	38	65
Recap Anchor back to opening and WIIFM	2	2	5	5
Conclusion / Closing Invitation to Next Steps	5	10	12	15
Suggest Price Point for Offer	$20 to $100	$50 to $200	$100 to $400	$200 to $1500

When considering what price point to offer, keep in mind these factors:

- As a beginning speaker where you are speaking to a cold audience (i.e. they are not at all familiar with you or your products and services), you will want to stay on the lower side of the spectrum.
- If you are speaking at an event where the host has great credibility and authority with the audience, you will be leveraging their credibility and can then move towards the higher price range.
- As you build your brand, reputation, and credibility, you will be able to leverage those assets to sell at the higher end of the spectrum.

LET'S PRACTICE YOUR ENGAGING OPENING

Prepare your opening as outlined in the training. Do not go into your content. Follow the outline below. This is your opportunity to practice and get the gift of feedback to make it even better.

THE GOAL: Create powerful opening that:

- Acknowledges the promoter and the audience (MMFI-AM)
- Quickly grabs attention (2 “yes” questions; or quote; or statistic)
- Shows participants what’s in it for them to listen (WII-FM)
- Briefly outlines what you’re going to share
- Advises that you will share how they can take what they’ve heard/learned today and take it to the next level.

Example	Your Opening
1. Acknowledge the audience and promoter: Thank you to the Health Association for inviting me here today. Let’s give them a round of applause for putting together this extraordinary event. And I want to acknowledge you – for taking the time out of your busy schedules to be here. You obviously care about you and your family’s good health and are willing to do what it takes to have it. So give yourselves a round of applause!
2. Quickly grab attention: And since that’s the case, raise your hand if you want to consistently prepare and eat healthy, nutritious meals? And keep them up if you want it to be easy and affordable?
3. Show the audience what’s in it for them AND briefly outline what you’re going to share: Great, that’s exactly what we’re going to talk about today. I’m going to show you 3 ways to easily incorporate healthy eating in your lifestyle so that you and your family get the powerful benefits food gives you.
4. Advise that you’ll give them an opportunity to take what you’re sharing to the next level: And because you are people who know that maximizing your health is vital for you and your family, I’ll share an easy and affordable way for you to take what you learn today and immediately put it into practice at home.

Consult at companies

According to Business Week magazine: $39.3B was spent in 2016 to paid outside consultants

To book outside consulting, start local. Chances are you have a connection to a company where you live. Here is a formula you can use:

- Identify a company where you can talk to a decision maker.
- Research that company and identify the problem you will solve.
- Offer to take the decision maker out for a coffee, dinner or grab 10 minutes of their time. A cold email rarely works. Face to face is what closes the deal.
- Present the problem that you can help solve. This presentation should include hard numbers, not your opinion. You want to show this company why they can't afford to not hire you. They also want to make sure they get a return on their investment.
- Charge a rate that's worth your time.
- Do a good job and get referrals.

Or – come in through the back door:

- Identify who you know that works at a company with employees.
- Offer to do a 'lunch and learn' to share valued information
- Inspire the employees to ask for more and talk to the owner/supervisor/boss about continuing with the company as an outside expert.

Checklist for Speaking / Event Location Preparation

For events where you're speaking on someone else's stage:

- How much time to speak?
- Request that they place a break after you speak (at least 10 to 15 minutes) to give audience time take you up on your offer. (Even if it's not an official 'sale' you'll want to have some call to action for audience next steps.)
- Find out about their audience – gender, age, financial, career, hobbies and mindset – things that are top of mind to them
- What are the terms of agreement?
 - Are you being paid a fee for presenting?
 - Does it include purchase of a book or other product for each attendee (or instead of)
 - If you are selling, coordinate your price in accordance with the audience's familiarity with selling from stage.
 - If selling from stage – who collects the money?
 - If selling from stage and sharing in revenue, what's the split?
 - Speaker Agreement

Find out room logistics:

- Size of room
- Will it be set up theatre style, classroom, rounds?
- Expected number of attendees
- Can you bring PowerPoint (is there a screen and projector)?

Final Presentation Prep (Logistics)

- PowerPoint/Keynote – on your computer and on a flash drive (USB)
- PowerPoint/Keynote – print it out too – just in case there are tech challenges you'll still be able to follow the flow and have an outline
- Handouts (as applicable)
 - Make sure handout are branded and include your website and contact info
 - If you have an opt-in free gift – put that link and compelling language on the handout, i.e. "Go to: SpeakingforFunandProfit.com and get the Presentation Profitizer Template"
- Have a free gift opt-in ready to go – they can access either by you telling them from the front of the room (or put it on a slide or flipchart) or set up text messaging opt-in.
- Bottle of water
- Gum, mints or throat lozenges
- Items to touch up hair and make up
- Order forms, product, pens
- Square or PayPal Smartphone device or similar application

If It's Your Event:

- Registration forms
- Name tags
- Roster of registered attendees
- Any other internal record-keeping forms you use

Room Set Up

Front of room

- Ideally you present at the opposite end from the entrance/exit door.
- If there are access doors near the front, place DO NOT ENTER signs on the outside of those doors to minimize distraction from the stage
- Table for projector, computer screen, props (books or other items)
- Table for display of your products
- Water –
 - Preferably room temperature (ice water tightens your vocal cords)
 - Better to have a glass than a plastic cup, next level down is a water bottle
- Screen – find out if venue provides it (at hotels there will be a charge for this). Ideally, screen will be to your right.
- Banners (if you have them) placed on opposite sides of the screen

Your Sales Table

- Initial Set Up:
 - Best placed at the back of the room, adjacent to the exit door (so they must walk by the table as they leave and you and your team will be there – makes it easier to engage with people)
 - Flowers or decorations – keep them simple and clean
 - Product (if you have it)
 - Pens & Notepads
 - Flyers about upcoming events
- At the time of the sale (call to action)
 - Keep it as clean as possible – remove all cups, glasses, computers, notepads, etc.
 - Order forms placed across the back of the table
 - If 25 people in the room – put out 7 to 10 forms
 - If 50 people in the room – put 10 to 15
 - Pens – lay across the order form with tip pointing at an angle towards the signature line. If you have to click so they're ready to write, click it on
 - If you're selling a package of products, have the sets ready to go

Isn't it Your Time TOO? Look at What's Possible...

"The coaching program has absolutely helped me excel in my business. My sales have increased, I have moved forward on goals that I've had, and then also on goals I didn't even know I had. I joined WPN in June 2018 I don't know how they do it! They're always there for you. Even when I don't think they're going to have time for me, they do. Whether it's for something little like, "Hey can you look at my flyer?" to big things like, "I don't know if I can do this anymore," or working on sales copy, practicing sales conversations, figuring out pricing and programs, they always have some sort of resource or advice."

~ Jessica Faber, Functional Health Practitioner

*"WPN has made a huge difference, it's made a difference because once I decided to make that leap of faith, and to join the programs that they offered. My coach put together amazing business plan to take my business to another level which grew my revenues by 27% in the first year, then another 28% the next, for a total increase of 55%! I've just renewed my program for the third time and can't wait to see my next level of growth!

~ Jennifer Bryan, Amazing Skin Care Med Spa

"What I admire and love and embrace with WPN is that it's a one stop shop. I have everything in one place. All my resources, my coaching, training, mentoring and my networking in the same location. This coaching program is different from all the others I've experienced. You can actually get in contact with them easily, zero in and have that personal time with them and have them keep you on track. I have a goal for the year and achieving it is so much easier with a system by which to work.

Anyone who actually wants to accomplish something that they have always had in mind, you know, that dream that may be way up under the shelf and you never really start working on it, that's the person that needs to come to WPN. Don't let your dream sit until you're too old or too tired. Bring your dream and your ideas and WPN will help you create it, expand it and make it into something that will overjoy you. So, if you want to actually make some good changes in your life and have that dream accomplished in a timely manner, then WPN is for you."
